In the United States more than 30,000 people are killed every year by gun violence. The disaster caused by gun violence is seen in almost every community.

Trigger shares the story of how gun violence - a disaster and public health issue - impacts individuals and communities, giving voice to the questions and insights of those who have been affected. After looking at their in-depth experiences, the documentary turns to the bigger question, “What can we do to prevent gun violence?”